HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS HOLD EXERCISES OF COMMENCEMENT

Justice Frederick L. Siddons, Senator Norris of Nebraska and Maj. Leroy W. Herron Among Speakers.

Commencement exercises of McKinley Manual Training School and the two-year class of Business High School were held last evening. This afternoon exercises of Western High School are to be held, Justice Frederick L. Siddons of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia being the speaker for the occasion.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, the speaker at the McKinley M. T. School exercises, urged higher standards of citizenship. Maj. Leroy W. Herron, speaker at Business High, gave the graduates a formula for success in the business world, and also urged them to "do their bit" for their country.

Class night exercises were held last night by Western and Eastern high schools.

Diplomas Conferred Upon

114 Boy and Girl Graduates of McKinley High School

Diplomas were delivered to 114 boy and girl graduates of the McKinley Manual Training School at commencement exercises held last night in the National Theater. The girls were dressed in white, in all their commencement glory. Friends and relatives of the graduates filled the theater, despite the inclemency of the weather.

William T. Gallier, member of the board of education, presented the diplomas. Ernest L. Thurston, superintendent of schools, presided. George W. Norris of Nebraska made the address to the graduates. An invocation was said by Rev. Robert Talbot. Music was provided by the school orchestra, under the direction of Leonard Dore.

In his address to the graduates Senator Norris denounced dishonest politicians and urged a higher standard of citizenship that will purge elections of fraud and illegality. He favored the education of the individual in the exercise of the franchise so that the individual voter will give conscience in choosing his legislative representatives as he does in his religious worship.

Depicts Greatest Evil.

The dishonest nominee is the greatest evil in American politics today, he said. The best asset of the country, he then asserted, is the independent voter, and illegal elections are the result, in his opinion, of the failure of the individual voter to follow the dictates of conscience. Dishonesty in politics, he said, is not confined to one party or section of the nation.

The people will always withdraw power from those who do not wield it properly, said Senator Norris. He spoke of the tremendous power of public opinion. The history of civilization, he said, is the contest between those who would maintain things as they are and those who would press forward, between conservatives and radicals. The law of progress he considered the law of God.

Pathway to Success Cited by Maj. Leroy W. Herron to Graduates of Business High

Some of the things to do to achieve success were outlined by Maj. Leroy W. Herron, advertising manager of The Star, in an address to the two-year graduating class at Business High School last evening. Maj. Herron also spoke of the duty which every man and woman in this country owe to the nation and urged all to "do their bit," emphasizing the need for the young men to give a part of their time to receiving military instruction.

"We hear a great deal today about 'preparedness,'" said Maj. Herron. "We do not want preparedness in the sense that you young ladies and gentlemen have been prepared against business failure. You are about to go out and fight your battles in commercial fields. The fact that you are prepared doesn't mean the enemy is in wait. Your employers or co-workers are not going to run away because you have a certificate from the Business High School."

Must Fight for Victory.

"Don't get the idea that the business world is waiting to receive you with open arms. This means just one thing—that you have got to fight for what you get. This certificate which you are to receive will give you a certain advantage, but it also will make your employer expect more from you."

"I remember a cartoon which Mr. Berryman once drew. It showed the graduate proudly with his diploma in his hand. Around the corner stood the world with a cudgel in his hand. It is only the knuckle which makes it worth while, and it is only the

THUTHFULNESS A FACTOR.

"Truthfulness is another thing that makes for success. A man who is not truthful may succeed for a while, but not for long. The third quality needed is honesty. This is very near to truthfulness, but quite the same. Truthfulness is based on truth, and you must trust one. You will find when you get into business that most men are honest."

"In addition to these things you must have an ambition. You must be always working for something. You can't sit at a desk and dream; you must have a goal in your mind's eye and keep it there always. But simply having an ambition and nothing along with it can get you anywhere. You must work for it. You must keep going as hard and as straight as you can."

Referring to the need for preparedness, Maj. Herron said: "I always think of the nation as a large family. We all of us have a part to play in it. Each one of you young men owes it to your country to be prepared. You young ladies should be prepared. You must have a goal in your mind's eye and keep it there always. But simply having an ambition and nothing along with it can get you anywhere. You must work for it. You must keep going as hard and as straight as you can."

Principal Allan Davis presided in the absence of Ernest H. Daniel, vice president of the board of education, who was indisposed. Mrs. Edith Kingman Kern, a member of the board, presented the diplomas. The invocation was delivered by Rev. John E. Briggs. Music was furnished by the Business High School Orchestra.

JACK, APHASIA VICTIM; OFF FOR HIS OLD HOME

Maj. Pullman Takes Personal Interest in Young Man Seeking Clue to Identity.

"Jack," the young man who yesterday arrived in this city with W. E. Trowbridge of Augusta, Ga., searching for a clue to his identity, today left this city with his benefactor. Before leaving he was photographed at police headquarters, his fingerprints taken and every effort made to bring about his identification.

Maj. Pullman yesterday took a personal interest in the investigation and held a long conversation with him, and while additional incidents in the life of the young man were recalled, "Jack" abandoned hope of learning of his identity until he reaches Bangor, Me., where, he says, his parents reside.

Discussing the story of his life with Maj. Pullman, "Jack" was able to recall having attended Phillips-Exeter College, where, he stated, he remained from 1903 until 1907, although he did not graduate. He participated in athletic events at the educational institution, he said, especially on a football squad team, and was known as the left-handed player.

Grads Fail to Identify Him.

Graduates of that institution saw him at police headquarters yesterday afternoon, but none of them was able to identify him. "Jack" repeated to Maj. Pullman the story of his trip from his home in Bangor, Me., to Philadelphia, where he visited friends of his mother whose name he was unable to recall. He accompanied his mother to the city, he said, to visit the Du Pont powder works, but they were not permitted to enter the plant.

Repeating his story of the trip to this city, where, he stated, his mother sent him to study, he said that he intended to go to St. Augustine, Fla., he said he was unable to recall anything that happened in the city, but that he had happened in Philadelphia. He told of going to a moving picture show, said he purchased a newspaper, and that he indulged in two bottles of a soft drink while waiting for the train to take him south.

Found in a Swamp Penniless.

"Jack" said he had $250 on his person when he left Wilmington, but when he found himself in a swamp near Augusta, Ga., he was penniless. Physicians in Augusta were satisfied that he had been sandbagged or otherwise roughly handled and the loss of money was caused by a blow.

Walking from the swamp to Augusta, a distance of eighteen miles, he stated, he said he found persons who gave him the best of care and who treated him as good as his own parents could have treated him. He worked for Mr. Trowbridge, but was unable to see him. He was taken to a hospital in the city, where he was treated, and his employer decided to accompany him to Bangor.

A photograph of the young man was reproduced in papers in Maine and other states, but without assisting "Jack" to find his parents. Should he eventually fail to locate them, it is stated, he probably will return to Augusta, where he was found, and remain in his employ.

PLANS MADE FOR FLOATING THE STEAMER WAKEFIELD

Vessel Which Sank After Contact With Pile to Be Restored to Service.

Plans for the floating of the Potomac and Chesapeake line steamer Wakefield, which sank in shoal water at Mathias point, Va., Thursday evening, following her contact with a sunken pile, have been perfected and within the next day or two salvage operations will be started. It is planned to send a steam pump and lighters to the sunken steamer and as soon as the high water in the river subsides to locate and temporarily close the hole made in the hull by the pile. The steamer will then be pumped out and raised and taken to a shipyard for repairs. How extensive is the damage done the hull of the steamer is not known.

Chief Engineer in Charge.

The salvage operations will be in charge of Chief Engineer Smith of the Potomac and Chesapeake line and it is thought the steamer can be raised without much difficulty. She is lying with her bow well out and only a little over a foot of water on the freight deck at her stern. When the water level of the river returns to normal the entire main deck will be above water and it is thought the broken part of the hull can then be located and closed so as to keep out the water during the floating operations.

At this time the Potomac and Chesapeake line are unable to estimate how long the Wakefield will be off her route, but she will be repaired and replaced in service at the earliest possible moment. Meanwhile the steamer's gratitude will be operated upon her route.
